

Introduction

2020 has been an amazing year for Infinity Foundation with original research, numerous game-changing discussions, and academic initiatives, despite the unprecedented disruptions brought about by the Covid-19 global pandemic. Important people across disciplines were interviewed and participated in lively debates.

At the helm of Infinity Foundation, Rajiv Malhotra has successfully navigated the challenges in the representation of Indian knowledge and culture, and through his deep knowledge, profound insights and path-breaking books has established a very viable Swadeshi alternative to the western schools of thoughts which tend to have a biased and unsympathetic view of India and her cultural assets. By coining original vocabulary like crash of civilization, moronization, mutual respect, reversing the gaze, digestion, U-turn theory among others, Rajiv has brought to the forefront numerous challenges confronting Indian society both within and outside India.

In 2020, Infinity Foundation continued 26 years of path-breaking research based on Rajiv Malhotra's works on India's historical and future place in the world. We have successfully managed to challenge the existing negative global discourse on India. At the same time we have propagated and reinforced a very positive narrative about India, Hinduism and Dharma, based on India's contribution to science, technology, mind sciences, architecture, mathematics, astronomy, linguistics, computer science and other fields.

One of the biggest game-changers we envisage for 2021 is the launch of Rajiv Malhotra's latest book "Artificial Intelligence and the Future of Power". This is a one of a kind book which highlights the current clash of humanity and cutting-edge technology, and tries to forecast what an AI-dominated future will look like for the world in general, and India in particular. The book argues that the current AI-driven revolution will have an unequal impact on different segments of humanity. After analyzing society's vulnerabilities to the impending tsunami, the book raises troubling questions that provoke immediate debate: is the world headed toward digital colonization by USA and China? Will depopulation become eventually unavoidable? The book is a wakeup call to action, compelling public intellectuals to be better informed and more engaged. Details are provided in a later section.

In this report, we will highlight some of the key discussions, debates and original research work conducted in 2020. The report will also discuss the launch of "Sanskrit Non-Translatables: The Importance of Sanskritizing English" - a very important new book on non-translatability of certain Sanskrit words.

Sanskrit Non-Translatables (SNT)

The last quarter of 2020 saw the launch of a path-breaking new book called “Sanskrit Non-Translatables: The Importance of Sanskritizing English” by Rajiv Malhotra and co-authored by Satyanarayana Dasa Babaji.

It expands on the original and innovative idea, introduced in the book “Being Different” that Sanskrit is difficult and at times impossible to translate into English because the underlying thought, expression, perception and experience is absent in western thought.

The book offers English speakers the knowledge to confidently introduce a list of 54 Sanskrit words (across subject areas) into their daily speech.

SNT Book Launch Event

The book launch event was attended by luminaries from different fields. Everyone shared their enthusiasm for the path breaking work that would allow us to present our core concepts in the way that they truly are and not water them down with translations that don’t convey their true meaning.

Full book launch video is available here.

Swami Govind Dev Giriji endorsed the book enthusiastically explaining that such books would solve the difficulties that gurus like him faced when trying to convey the meaning of Sanskrit words in English discourses on shastras. He said that this was an important first step to stand up against the cultural genocide of Hindus.

Dr. Subramanian Swamy talked about the book in the context of the cultural renaissance of India through the development of a modern Indian mindset that is rooted in the past but ready to innovate for the future. Video

Dr. Vijay Bhatkar said that given his Vedanta training under a qualified guru, he was aware of the inadequacy of English translations in communicating the meaning of Sanskrit words. He welcomed the fact that it was an English book that was loyal to the tradition. He said that the book would help not only foreigners but also insiders to the tradition. Video

Mohan Bhagwat said that it was the misunderstanding of words that resulted in conflicts that Sants reincarnated to resolve. So the “gyan” and “vichar” behind the use of words are important. By reading words that the British mistranslated, we are misinterpreting our own history and heritage. The book can help us present ourselves correctly. Video

Dr. Kapil Kapoor highlights how the destruction of a culture can be perpetrated by the alteration of its language, because the entire knowledge system of that culture is represented in its language.

So, since the Sanskrit language is the keeper of our cultural heritage, its misinterpretation or misrepresentation would lead to the destruction of our culture. Video

Madhu Kishwar explains how Rajiv Malhotra single-handedly took on the western academia that had pushed Sanskrit into the category of a “dead” language while continuing to digest its treasures. She compares Rajiv’s fight with India’s well-entrenched enemies to Guru Govind Singh’s resolve in his very unequal battle against the Mughals. Video.

SNT Terms

Guru ≠ Teacher

Hanuman ≠ Monkey God

Hanuman is frivolously translated in English as “Monkey God” by many scholars. Highly revered as an avatara of Shiva and as a devotee of Rama, Hanuman is an accomplished scholar in his own right, widely acclaimed for his knowledge of the Vedas and Vyakarana.

He bestows strength, wisdom and knowledge on His devotees. Translating Hanuman as “monkey God” is an insult to the all that Hanuman embodies. Videos – 1, 2, 3

Covid-19 and the Aftermath

With Covid-19 spreading like wildfire globally, 2020 witnessed global disruptions at an unprecedented scale. Experts including Rajiv Malhotra are of the opinion that the world as we know it is changing dramatically and the post-covid world will be quite different from earlier – and we are already witnessing such dramatic changes the world over.

Not only are we seeing a severe economic impact on account of industrial shutdowns, we are also witnessing geopolitical realignments, and large scale shifts in societal structures, cultural norms, approaches to sustainability and perhaps even in terms of how we think. We are heading towards a new normal and we have to be prepared for it. This is therefore a time for self-reflection and course correction.

A significant number of discussions this year touched upon various aspects of Covid-19, its impact, and how we can be better equipped to deal with an uncertain yet exciting future.

Challenges and Opportunities

Other Major Discussions

In Conversation with Dr. Jay Glaser

Dr. Jay Glaser and Rajiv Malhotra discuss the advent and evolution of transcendental meditation in the US.

He talks about how the riches of Ayurveda was brought to the West and positioned as a consciousness based system. He talks about how Maharishi refused to adopt a reductionist approach to Ayurveda and didn't believe in separating out active ingredients from the source plant when talking about medicines and pharmacology.

Rajiv Malhotra and Jay Glaser talk about the years of Deepak Chopra and Sri Sri Ravi Shankar at Maharishi Mahesh Yogi's ashram, and the influence it had on their subsequent careers. They then talk about how Dr Herb Benson studied Transcendental Meditation under Maharishi Mahesh Yogi and then went off to start his own technique modeled on TM.

In the final episode of this series, Rajiv Malhotra and Dr. Jay Glaser discuss the influence that Maharishi had on Indians in India.

Youth Asks

This new series by Infinity Foundation 'The Youth Asks' features interactions between young Hindus, Rajiv Malhotra and other guests.

Divya Nagaraj asks Rajiv Malhotra whether Indians are prisoners to Western Universalism. Rajiv Malhotra explains how every culture has its own philosophy and a point of view on the basis of which they analyze and make sense of the world around them. India, despite its rich history and civilization, has shied away from asserting Vedic Universalism. Video.

Rajiv Malhotra and Divya Nagaraj discuss the importance of asserting and protecting one's unique cultural identity. Rajiv insists on mutual respect as a way forward to solve differences and conflicts. Discussion with Esther Dhanraj

Esther Dhanraj, born into a conservative Telugu Hindu Brahmin family, converted to Christianity when she was seventeen, after her parents switched faiths. After marriage, she went to the USA and studied Christianity formally at a reputed American University.

In this series, she describes her own journey from a blind faith Christian to an investigator, to an intellectual who discovered the hypocrisy of the pastors proselytizing in India.

She reveals what she discovered that caused her to become an ex-Christian. She emphasizes the need for Indian Christians to be courageous and raise rational questions about their faith.

She discusses her vision to create a support system for Indian ex-Christians to provide help to them.

Discussion with Vandana Shiva

In this fascinating discussion, eminent environmentalist Dr. Vandana Shiva reveals to Rajiv Malhotra the truth about biopiracy and the digestion of Indian agricultural science. She explains how an international agrochemical cartel led by Monsanto, and the American Patent Office, is trying to manipulate the agricultural industry across Europe, India and the rest of the world.

She explains her pioneering role in taking Vedic ideas of Ecofeminism to the West. Unfortunately these ideas have become digested into the Western feminism movement. They also discuss the Vedic origins of organic farming and how the indigenous Indore method got digested into western organic farming.

Kashmir Memorial in Toronto

In this very important lecture at an Indo-Canadian Kashmiri forum in Canada, Rajiv Malhotra discusses the causes behind the Kashmiri Hindu genocide. He talks about the shame that Hindus have associated with their own 'victimhood' and how it has prevented them from telling the world about the wrongs done to them because of religious persecution against their community.

He delves into the differences in historical experiences of the Punjabi Hindus and Kashmiri Hindus, and how that has shaped their attitude and response to Islamic aggression. Video.

Discussion with Dr. Oscar Pujol

In this very interesting conversation between Rajiv Malhotra and eminent European Sanskrit scholar Dr. Oscar Pujol, they discuss whether certain Sanskrit words should be translated or left in their Sanskrit original even when used in another language. They also argue the digestion of Indian culture into Western frameworks, especially into Christianity. The discussion concludes on a potential area of collaboration with mutual interest. Video.

Special Report on new Book: Artificial Intelligence and the Future of Power

In January 2021, when this report was being compiled, Rajiv Malhotra's latest book on AI was released amidst much interest and enthusiasm from people across various domains spanning spirituality, military, industry and academia. Therefore we have added this special report on the new book to highlight some of the key aspects of this very important book. For details click here.

Artificial Intelligence is only partially visible, just like an iceberg. To understand it fully, we must look beneath the surface. The positive side is that technology is making machines smarter. However, the deeper view explained in this book shows that AI is also making a growing number of people cognitively and psychologically dependent on digital networks. Whether you are a social media fanatic, a diehard AI aficionado, or a paranoid sceptic, it is impossible to escape the ubiquitous impact of AI. Artificial Intelligence is the brains bringing together quantum computing, nanotechnology, medical technology, brain-machine interface, robotics, aerospace, 5G, Internet of Things, and more. It is amplifying human ingenuity and disrupting the foundations of healthcare, military, entertainment, education, marketing and manufacturing.

Artificial Intelligence and The Future of Power argues that this AI-driven revolution will have an unequal impact on different segments of humanity. There will be new winners and losers, new haves and have-nots, resulting in an unprecedented concentration of wealth and power. After analyzing society's vulnerabilities to the impending tsunami, the book raises troubling questions that provoke immediate debate: Is the world headed toward digital colonization by USA and China? Will depopulation become eventually unavoidable?

Artificial Intelligence and The Future of Power is a wakeup call to action, compelling public intellectuals to be better informed and more engaged. It educates the social segments most at risk and wants them to demand a seat at the table where policies on AI are being formulated.

Battleground 2: Geopolitics and military – USA, China and India.

Battleground 3: The Moronization of the masses – bowing down to the digital deities Battleground 4: Loss of selfhood to artificial emotions and gratifications.

Battleground 5: Stress-testing the Indian Rashtra.

The book has received endorsements from several prominent personalities.

“Let me compliment you for writing this book at this stage of the game and discussing this very important question in the context of Five battlegrounds. I think it is a great contribution and I am sure it will trigger very important conversations in society. Certainly, the battlegrounds which you have defined are actually a lot of food for thought for several stakeholders in society, and I do hope that a lot of debate gets triggered as a result of this book which will be good for humanity at large.”

Dr. Anil Kakodkar - Chairman of Atomic Energy Commission of India, Retired

“I think various forces are at play. Anyone who understands this, it becomes his Swadharma. So I think it is your Swadharma, it is my Swadharma, that we talk about it, we do what we can and unless we begin with the dystopian view, we will not be galvanized into action. So I salute you for raising the alarm by stating those 5 battlegrounds, catching hold of people and telling them and saying that you got to do something, not because the world will necessarily go bad, but because it is a real risk and we must fight with all our might to resist it.”

Vallabh Bhansali - Chairman, ENAM, Philanthropist and Spiritualist

“Rajiv has revealed the Rupa of what the world is going to be. He has performed seminal public service for those who believe in the sovereignty of an individual human being. We thank you for that. Throughout history, the greatest crime against a human being has been organ harvesting. But Rajiv has explained that the most dangerous organ harvesting that is going on is the harvesting of our mind and it is happening unconsciously without us realizing it. I predict that this book will be the most talked-about in 2021.”

Rakesh Kaul - Vice Chairman – Indo-American Arts Council

“Rajiv Malhotra’s brilliant book spells out for the first time the biggest Pavlovian subjugation that humanity has been trapped within. The clear and present danger to India and Indians has been enunciated lucidly. A 2021 must read for the public and policy makers alike.”

Usha Chaudhary - Corporate Executive, COO, CFO, CTO, Board Member and Senior Advisor

“Like most scholars in the Social Sciences, and just like most Hindu activists, I have been jolted into the world of tomorrow by Rajiv Malhotra's latest book on Artificial Intelligence. His prior books on Sanskrit or the Breaking India forces contained new insights on familiar topics, but this here is, for us, a totally new frontline.”
